Burj Khalifa

Burj Khalifa (برج خليفة, “Khalifa Tower“)

The tallest artificial structure in the world, standing at 829.8 m. Construction of Burj Khalifa began in 2004, with the exterior completed in 2009.

The primary structure is reinforced concrete.

The building opened in 2010

A total of 57 elevators and 8 escalators are installed, with the elevators having a capacity of 12 to 14 people per cabin.

Dubai Fountain

Everything's bigger in Dubai, and that includes the Dubai Fountain on Burj Khalifa Lake in the heart of downtown. Designed by WET, the people behind the famous Bellagio fountains in Las Vegas, the Dubai Fountain holds the record for the world's largest dancing fountain system.

The fountains extend 900 feet (275 meters) along the manmade lake, and during the dozen daily shows, high-powered water jets propel water up to 500 feet (150 meters) into the air -- the same height as a 50-story building. During a performance, as much as 22,000 gallons of water will be airborne. The sheer amount of water isn't the only impressive feature of the fountains; the system uses 6,600 incandescent fountain lights and 25 projectors to paint images on the dancing water.

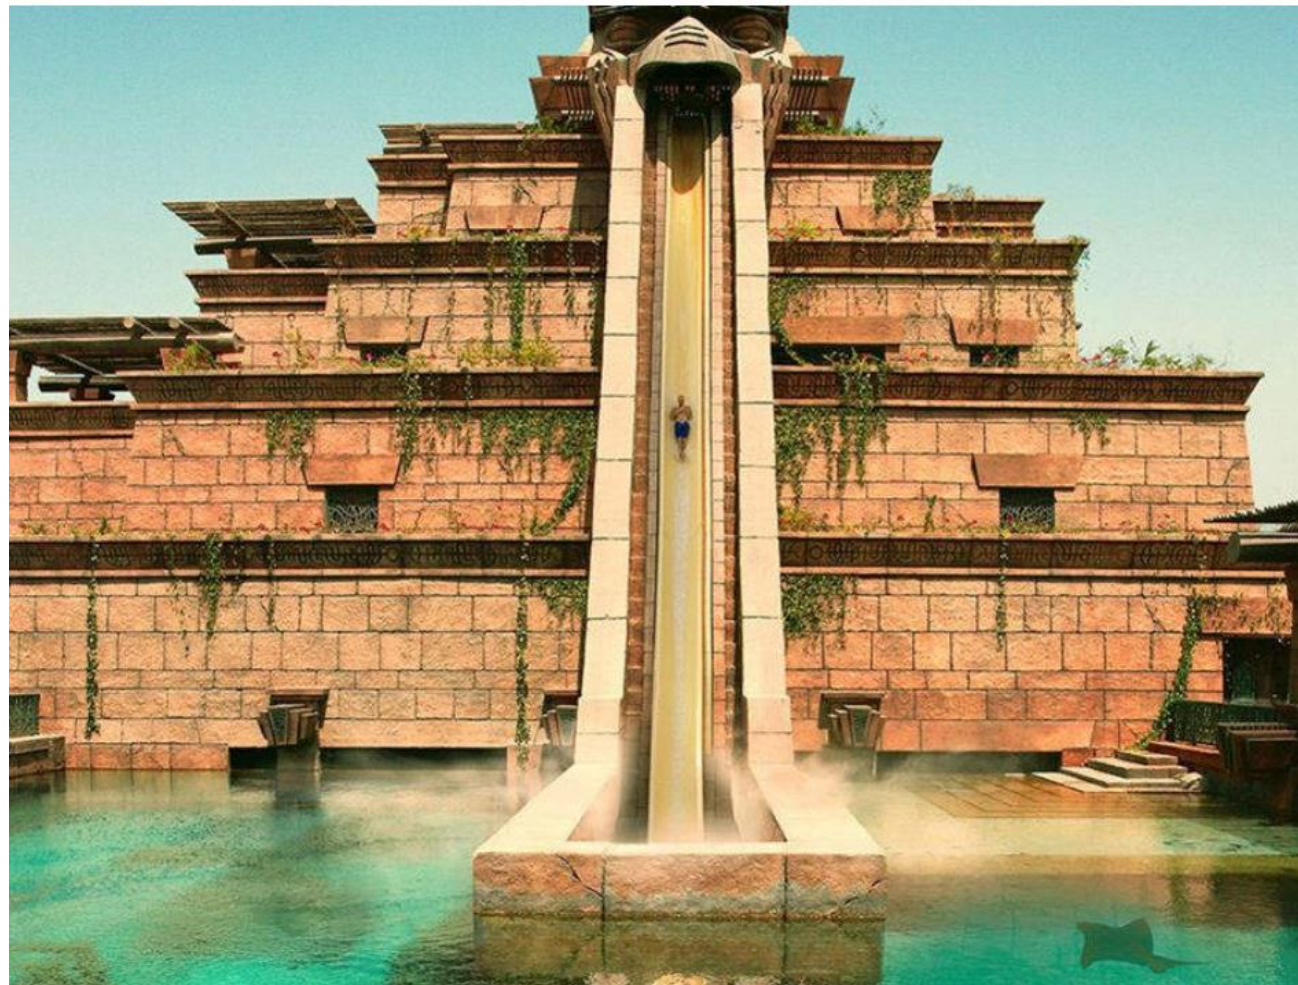

Performances take place every 30 minutes each evening, and each "dance" is different from the last, with different Arabic and world music and different water movements. You'll find the Dubai Fountain just outside of the Dubai Mall.

Dubai Museum

Dubai Museum is housed in Al Fahidi Fort, built in 1787. It's a terrific example of a desert fort, complete with cannons and battlements. Dubai's entertaining museum brings the city's past and present together in a series of life-size dioramas and archaeological exhibits from desert excavations.

Meet the pearl fishers who first settled the banks of the Creek, the desert Bedouins who roamed the heartland, and the date farmers who irrigated the land. You'll also see representations of a busy souq, a mosque and inside a traditional home, revealing life in the Emirate before the coming of oil

Al Mansour Dhow

Sail away on a culinary adventure!

Taking you to the nostalgic Arabic past when dhows sailed by tranquil waters, while offering up a delectable traditional Arabic buffet spread to relish, the Al Mansour Dhow indulges all your senses. This one of a kind restaurant in Deira, gives visitors a chance to go on a cruise down Dubai creek on a rustic wooden Dhow that has twinkling lights festooned along its length. The two-hour cruise lets you experience the best of fine dining and 5-star hospitality, when you manage to pull yourself away from the enchanting views around.

From refreshing beverages to artfully prepared food platters, the international buffet at the Dubai cruise restaurant features a plethora of Middle Eastern choices prepared by award-winning chefs.

Dubai Mall

World's largest shopping mall is more like a small city, housing some 1,200 retailers, 200 food and beverage outlets and a whole lineup of entertainment options.

Olympic-sized ice rink. The Dubai Aquarium & Underwater Zoo, the world's largest suspended aquarium with 2.6 million gallons (10 million liters) of tank space. The entertainment complex also houses a 22-screen movie theater, SEGA Republic indoor theme park and KidZania edutainment center.

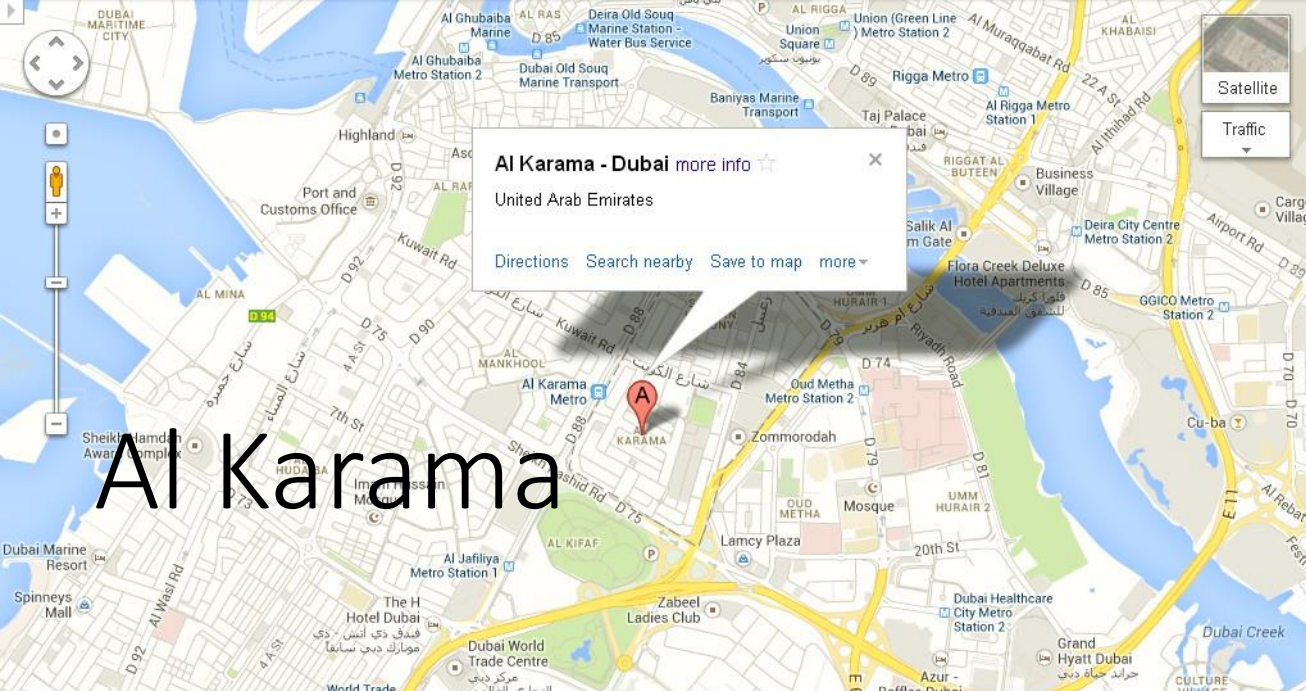

Mall of the Emirates

The Mall of the Emirates, Dubai's second largest shopping complex after the Dubai Mall, houses 560 international retailers spread over 2,513,017 square feet (233,467 square meters) of retail space. Superlatives are plentiful — the mall houses the largest Carrefour supermarket in the city and five dozen stores made their Middle Eastern debut here.

While the shopping remains a huge draw to the Mall of the Emirates, even non-shoppers will find something to do. Ski Dubai (the first indoor ski slope in the region), multi-screen VOX Cinemas, Magic Planet arcade and family entertainment center, Peekaboo play area and the Dubai Community Theatre & Art Centre also make their home within the Mall of the Emirates.
